Topic: Transnational Spaces and Indian Diaspora Writings

By

Prof. A. Karunaker

Professor of English.

Dean, Faculty of Arts Osmania University.

Time: 3:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Day & Date: Tue 27th April 2021

About the topic: Globalization, Privatization and Marketization made human society full of both visible and invisible complexities and human beings are living with these extremes. The new world has developed into a global village, and consequently the existing problems occurred due to globalization. In search of better opportunities people moved from their homeland to other parts of the world during their life. Expatriate experience is a wide spread phenomenon of human life that has taken place from the beginning of human civilization. The Indian diasporic writers have reflected not only human relations in their works but also expatriate experience and cross-cultural consciousness. The sense of alienation and exile are extremely strong and cause expatriate writers to seek solutions in their works and set up an everlasting place in English Diaspora Literature. My present endeavor focuses on the spaces and diasporic experiences in the works of Indian diasporic writers.
