PREFACE

It's my proud privilege to present this 'Self-Study Report', which details about the performance of Osmania University during the period under review, for the 3rd cycle of accreditation by the National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC).

As the one of the oldest and most prestigious Universities of southern India, Osmania University is committed to academic excellence in higher education through equity, accessibility and quality. I am very glad to share that the university is celebrating centenary celebrations in the current year i.e. 2017. During its 100 years of long existence it has played key role in higher education in Telangana and the Nation by its innovations. Osmania is a public university serving learners from diverse backgrounds and different needs. Therefore, the mission of the University is to provide a comprehensive, high-quality education that engages our students in quest for learning through research and broad-based scholarship. In addition, members of the faculty are constantly motivating and empowering the students to gain knowledge to compete in global market and solve societal problems. Whether in teaching, research, outreach or student engagement - equity, access and quality are the defining attributes of the University's mission.

The University was accredited for the first time in 2001 by NAAC with 'Five Stars', and re-accredited in 2008 as an 'A' Grade institution with CGPA 3.31 on a four point scale. During the post-accreditation period, the University implemented several academic and administrative reforms which have yielded tangible results as prognosticated. I am sure, the present 'Self-Study Report' and the subsequent process of assessment and accreditation amply provide an opportunity for further improvement in the institutional performance to reach new horizons of excellence in improving higher education and thus help to compete with top institutions in the country.

The report has been prepared, with utmost care as per the revised self-study manual of NAAC, covering all the aspects of different criteria based on the inputs collected from all departments and sections of the institute. It is our endeavour to showcase the University's credentials and other contributions made in the period after the 2nd cycle of assessment and accreditation. Therefore, I sincerely hope that the document will help peer team members to assess the performance of the university.

The latest developments, dynamic needs of the society, industry and research organizations, and above all global employability of students are factored into revision of curriculum. Also, the syllabi of various UGC/CSIR, NET and SET examinations are taken into account to enable students to compete.

Feedback is sought by academic bodies from the stakeholders once the website upload of syllabi is complete and comments and suggestions are taken into account.

SWOC ANALYSIS

OU over the years has expanded enormously. It established new academic institutions, developed linkages with national and international organizations, introduced new and relevant courses, and improved the governance focusing on teaching and research in interdisciplinary and emerging areas.

It has its own strengths, opportunities that enable OU to march ahead and compete with the ever-expanding growth in higher education.

Methodology

Based on internal and external evaluation, a SWOC analysis of OU is presented here:

- Student feedback
- Self-appraisal of faculty
- Departmental annual reports
- NAAC peer review reports, reports of other UGC committees and various funding agencies
- Scientific publications database (SCOPUS and INFLIBNET)
- National and international web based reports and rankings

Inferences

Student feedback is used to evaluate the quality of curriculum and faculty. In addition, feedback is also taken to know about amenities, infrastructure, and other services.

Self-appraisal of faculty helps in evaluating the performance in academics, research and governance of the university.

Departmental Annual Report documents progress in teaching and research, details collaborations and best practices adopted to attract grants and employability of the students.

Peer Review Reports emphasize on the scope of improvement and focus on the weaknesses.

Evaluation of Scientific Publications Database (SCOPUS and INFLIBNET) provides motivation for improvements in research to attract better funding. This is in addition to competitive spirit for better ranking in quality publications.

National and international magazines/ web based reports and rankings help in identifying the weaknesses, opportunities and challenges in terms of academics, research, governance, global placements, spread of alumni base etc.,

- Enhanced national and international accessibility
- Strong base for theoretical, experimental and applied research
- Capacity to expand consultancy and extension activities in various disciplines
- Vibrant academic environment promoting further research
- Scope for academic and research linkages with national and international organizations

CHALLENGES

- UG and PG affiliated colleges have reached optimum levels. Any further would be detrimental
- Global competition
- Increasing operational and maintenance charges
- Depletion of trained and senior manpower

Our endeavor has been to convert weaknesses into strengths and challenges into opportunities so that all stakeholders including students, scholars, faculty receives quality knowledge inputs.

Utilizing Strengths

Highly qualified and experienced faculty coupled with reasonably good infrastructure facilities has enabled the university to offer PG programs in diversified areas of specialization in interdisciplinary areas. It proposes to set up centre of excellence in relevant areas and enhance R&D activities.

Consultancy needs special impetus in different subject areas.

Alumni services are to be utilized for delivering expert lectures on state-of-the-art infrastructural facilities and for improving placements.

Overcoming Weaknesses

- The following facilities could be improved through: a) Modernization of labs and by junking obsolete equipment b) Procuring Journals and books, c) Promoting research facilities, and d) Providing Management Information Systems (MIS).
- Providing skills to technical staff working in all constituent colleges
- Industry - Institute Interaction can be improved by entering in to collaborative research projects with various national/international organizations of repute and by offering consultancy services in various fields
- Consultancy avenues in other departments is to be initiated

Exploiting Opportunities

- Students could be provided with PG programs assistantships. Reorient the programs based on market demand. This improves employability of the students.
- National level research and course collaboration

Mitigating Threats

- In recent years, quantum reduction of financial assistance by the State Government has led to scramble for funds. To overcome, self-finance courses were started at the PG level, which helped OU to sustain despite dwindling finances.
- Input quality concerns may be overcome by mentoring and adopting outcome based teaching methodologies.
- In the era of globalization, there is a possibility of entry of foreign Universities/ technical institutions as potential competitors. The university has proposed to enter into MoUs with international reputed universities.
- To counter threat, dynamic leadership with aggressive posturing is required to improve standards.
- Based on SWOC analysis, “strategic plan” has been developed for institutional development.

STRATEGIC PLAN

OU intends to accept the strategies as envisaged by the MHRD/UGC in order to enhance the access to higher education. OU would like to increase the intake to the tune of 25 per cent, over and above the existing strength of 12,770. This is in keeping with the market situation in the country and abroad.

Based on SWOC analysis, OU plans to adopt a four-pronged strategy to ensure access and expansion.

1. Strengthening of existing courses and departments
2. Establishing of new departments
3. Introduction of new courses
4. Starting of new Institutions

1. Strengthening of existing courses:

- The strategy adopted, include restructure, revision of the curriculum based on market and societal needs. Integration of graduate programs in select subjects to increase the intake with provision to choose pure academics, research, industry, service sector makes it attractive to knowledge seekers and skill learners. This should have flexibility with a wide choice of electives.
- The necessary modern infrastructure needs to be created to meet up with the regulatory norms for increase in the PG intake.

2. Establishment of New Departments:

- The establishment of new departments would be based on courses offered under self-finance with a scope for further expansion to offer higher degree of PhD. This is to attract more funds from various agencies. This action plan befits the recommendations of the NAAC peer review committee reports.

3. Introduction of New Courses:

- Three primary features go into the introduction of new Programs/Courses.
 - Program relevance and economic benefits for the region
 - Demand, resources and cost effectiveness for the program
 - Program uniqueness as a nucleus.
- This reflects on the need and works towards building access.
- These new programs are conceived based on the faculty expertise, completed research projects, equipment availability, trainings acquired, affiliating courses, linkages established with industry-institutes in India and abroad. Further, the proposed new programs are prioritized on the basis of demand, social relevance, economic development, emerging needs and regional and national priorities.

4. Starting of New Institutions:

- Launching of new institutions depends on the underserved areas in the OU jurisdiction, identified as educationally backward region. Further, national average of GER should be addressed in order to factor in social and gender dimension on access to higher education.
- OU has specific agenda for promotion of equity and inclusion in higher education by strictly adhering to the reservation policy and as envisaged in the XII Plan Higher Education Policy.
- Further, OU seeks support for subsidies for capacity building to improve access, retention and performance of the students from marginalized sections by permitting dual degree option of enrolment.
- A six-pronged strategy would be adopted to promote and sustain equity and inclusion policy.
 1. Construction of new hostels
 2. Improving employability of graduates
 3. Increased learning outcomes of the students
 4. Enhancing interaction with industry
 5. Creating virtual learning center
 6. Establishing scholarships and loan facilitation
- To promote knowledge based society, OU plans to sustain quality and excellence through institutional restructuring of academic and administrative reforms. This would go a long way in achieving excellence through efficiency in governance, effectiveness in planning, and use of human, physical and financial resources so that the highest standards of quality in higher education are upheld. OU adopts the following strategies to streamline its functioning and achieve quality and excellence.

- Framing the graduate attributes and benchmarking of courses and syllabi
- Increase visibility in national and international arena through networking and collaborations. Also, provide faculty training and mobility by capitalizing on its potential for excellence status
- Achieve two-fold increase in publications with high impact factor and citation index
- Augment the infrastructure facilities and best practices
- Promote the Academia-Industry-Institute linkages to optimize resources and expand knowledge base

Challenges in implementation of Strategic Plan

- Adequate Infrastructure development for additional Intake in new programs
- Faculty recruitment on regular basis
- Motivating the faculty to work towards the set objectives
- Marketing of new PG programs
- Interdisciplinary nature of research
- Promote a strong sense of community, teamwork among the students, faculty, staff and alumni
- Above all, build strong relationship with society, in particular with the industry to contribute towards economic advancement of the country.

The Central and State Governments and the various agencies concerned such as UGC, AICTE, NAAC, etc. have been emphasizing the need for improving the quality of Higher Education in the country. During the post-accreditation period, Osmania University has made rapid and significant strides in this direction by introducing several initiatives for quality sustenance and enhancement in teaching, research and governance.

Academic Initiatives:

1. Choice Based Credit System

The University has introduced Choice Based Credit System (CBCS) and grade evaluation methods for all the PG and UG courses being offered at campus, constituent and affiliated colleges in 2009-10 and 2016-17 respectively with the approval of all the statutory bodies. Some of the salient features of CBCS and Grade systems are given below:

- A Post Graduate student has a choice of selecting one choice based courses/papers in the IV semester offered by other cohesive departments within the faculty/within the department from other disciplines. The course content should not be a part of regular conventional programme. Each course/paper is designated as Choice Based (CB) Paper which carries a weight age of four credits.
- In the CBCS system, continuous evaluation of the students in all the semesters is done through Internal Assessments, Assignments and Seminars.
- Each paper/course and Seminar is assigned with a specific number of credits and the marks secured by a student are converted into grade points and credit points. The performance of a student in a semester is expressed as Grade Point Average (GPA) and the combined performance of a student in all the four semesters of the programme is expressed as Cumulative Grade Point Average (CGPA).

2. Curriculum Development

The University has a structured set-up for Curriculum Development, through respective Boards of Studies of the subjects concerned, then to faculties, Standing Committee and Academic Senate to approve the prescribed syllabus for both the PG and UG programmes.

The Boards of Studies regularly revise and update the syllabi (once in three years) in accordance with the recommendations of UGC/AICTE/NCTE/BCI. Latest developments in the subject, the needs of the industry and the research organisations and enhancement of students' employability nationally and internationally are considered while revising the curriculum. Besides these, the needs of the students appearing for competitive examinations conducted by UGC/CSIR, NET, SET and CSIR are taken into account.

While revising the curriculum, the academic bodies give utmost importance to the feedback received from the stakeholders such as students, parents, academic peers, experts from research institutions and industry.

The following aspects have been actively considered during the curriculum development process:

- Review, revise and restructure the curricula through continuous upgradation of all programmes to incorporate standards of national and international accreditation bodies based on industry/market needs

- Offer need based socially relevant new and innovative programmes and career oriented add-on courses
- Adoption of inter-disciplinary programme across the faculties
- Strengthening UG and PG programmes by introduction of 5-year integrated courses
- Project Work has been included as an optional in all PG and mandatory in all UG and PG Professional programmes
- Organise stimulating seminars by the students, faculty and experts periodically
- Introduced Language Lab in the curriculum of all the professional courses at UG level
- One semester as Ph.D. course work has been introduced for all the registered candidates pursuing for doctoral degree. However, any candidate with M.Phil. Degree obtained in a regular mode is exempted from the Ph.D. course work

Further, the University has contemplated to establish a nodal centre at University level through Bureau of Academic Affairs to provide broad guidelines in designing the curriculum, course requirements for specific PG and UG degrees in terms of scheme of instructions, examination and evaluation with uniformity in credit and number, so as to enable for credit flexibility, credit transfer, etc.

3. Admission Procedures

In matters of admission of students to the various programmes, the university does not discriminate between the various economic strata and social groups of the Indian society. In conformity with the University policy, the fee structure has been kept at a low level for all courses, including professional ones, to enable the underprivileged to have access to higher education. The University will intensify its efforts to make higher education accessible to as many people as possible.

The University feels a strong responsibility towards improving urban living conditions, alleviation of poverty and rural development. As part of the University social obligation a number of urban, rural and semi-rural education university centers are established. This type of alleviation programme will be vastly increased.

Another aspect of equality of educational opportunities concerns is addressed to the gender aspect. For various reasons, women have been deprived of educational and work opportunities. Osmania University has a full-fledged College for Women, where the facilities are on par with the other University Colleges. It has also provided for a statutory reservation of 30 percent for women candidates in all courses. The University encourages the integration of women's studies in different disciplines, besides stepping-up women-oriented activities. The University ensures that the physically challenged are provided opportunities both in admission to different academic programmes and employment in University service as per the policy of the Government.

The University offers several UG, PG and Ph.D. programmes in different disciplines. The admission procedures in vogue, according to the level of course, duly adhere to the national policy including equity and inclusiveness. The following illustrates the details of admission procedures.

Undergraduate Courses: The admission into regular, vocational and honors UG programmes is based on the merit in qualifying examination, whereas in the case of professional courses based on the rank obtained in Common Entrance Tests conducted at State level.

Postgraduate & PG Diploma Courses: The admission into all regular PG courses is based on the rank obtained in the respective Post Graduate Common Entrance Test conducted at University level. Presently, the admission is solely based on the rank obtained in the Entrance Test. However, in respect of professional courses the rank at the State level Common Entrance Tests is being considered for admission.

Ph.D. Programmes: Registration/admission into Ph.D. course in any subject is based on (1) the award of research fellowship by National level funding agencies based on the merit and eligibility tests, and (2) qualifying in the Eligibility Tests conducted at university/State/National level every year followed by performance in the interview.

In order to ensure transparency, credibility and accountability, the University has established a separate statutory and regulatory body, Directorate of Admissions, responsible for all admission processes in the university.

Objective-based admissions are carried out for various courses offered by the University while considering the following aspects:

- The schedules of admission process are brought to the notice of the general public through University web-site, notice-board and electronic & print media
- Information Brochure is supplied along the application form depicting all the particulars pertaining to the number of courses offered, number of seats available for each course, duration of the course, eligibility criteria, reservation policy, tuition fee details, and important dates in addition to general rules, regulations and instructions pertaining to discipline and code of conduct for students
- Maintenance of confidentiality for evaluation and assessment process by adopting coding and de-coding methodology
- Optical Mark Reader (OMR) answer sheet is used for quick and error-free evaluation

- The candidates qualified at National/State level tests are exempted from taking eligibility test conducted by the University for seeking admission into Ph.D. programme, however, such candidates have to apply for admission into Ph.D.
- Each Research Supervisor is allowed to guide a maximum number of eight research scholars out of which two candidates must be research fellowship holders, otherwise the number of scholars should be six. One foreign student may be as an additional seat over and above the normal strength

4. Examination Reforms

The University has promptly responded to the directions of UGC about the need for examination reforms with a particular emphasis on introducing the continuous internal assessment system with grading in a semester system of course structure. Accordingly, the University has revamped the examination process and re-introduced the continuous internal evaluation from the academic year 2009-10 in all PG programmes offered at campus, constituent and affiliated colleges. However, this system has been existing in the Engineering and Technology courses since 1974-75 academic years. The details of examination reforms introduced in the University are explained below:

Continuous Internal Evaluation:

- Continuous evaluation in all PG and UG (professional) courses through internal assessments, seminars, assignments and fieldworks with final semester end examination
- At present 20-30% weightage is given to internal assessments, assignments and seminars
- First Internal assessment is performed after completion of 50% of syllabus and second one just before the last day of instructions
- Unit based assignments are assigned at the beginning of the semester
- One to two seminar presentations are scheduled on specific days allotted by the department concerned
- Initial evaluation is done on marks basis which will subsequently be converted into grades
- Awarded marks are displayed on the notice boards of the respective departments

- From the academic year 2012-13, the university has set up Secured Electronic Distribution of Examination Papers (SEDEP) to overcome the difficulties in logistics of distribution of question papers.

End-of-Semester Evaluation:

The end-of-semester examination for courses where they follow the semester system will have a descriptive mode of examination to assess the knowledge and skills acquired during the process of course of study. In this process of evaluation the following are the salient features:

- 32-page stitched answer book with security features
- Different modes of formatted question paper with short and essay type are being framed
- Each question paper is moderated to ensure the pragmatic distribution questions covering the entire syllabus prescribed by the Chairperson of the Board of Studies concerned
- Each Answer Booklet is coded before handing over to the evaluator and decoded before tabulation
- In the case of theory, both internal and external examiners evaluate independently whereas in case of practical examination, it is a combined evaluation
- A statutory provision for moderation is in vogue
- A separate results committee is constituted for each course to declare the final results

Integration of Continuous and End-of-Semester Evaluation:

- Uniform procedure is being adopted for all the courses
- The relational weightages are being decided by the respective Boards of Studies and Faculties
- At present, the relational weightage is in the range of 20 to 30%
- Semester Grade Point Average (SGPA) is calculated based on the marks obtained for each semester
- Final results are assigned with a grade letter based on Cumulative Grade Point Average (CGPA) obtained on a ten point scale
- All the efforts are made to declare the final results within 45 days after the completion of last examination of the course concerned

In addition to the above academic and administrative reforms, the University has adopted the following practices to ensure quality and excellence:

- Introduction of OMR sheets for PG entrance examination to increase speed of evaluation, reduce expenditure, enhance security and objectivity
- Supply of detailed scheme of evaluation to all examiners to ensure uniform valuation

- Introduction of Tatkal Scheme to issue Degree Certificates and other documents on priority basis
- Introduction of security features such as micro-printing, special borders, water mark, photograph, hologram and invisible printing in degree certificates
- Electronic Data Processing (EDP) section has been established for total computerization of Examination System and it undertakes routine works related to preparation of Nominal Rolls, Issue of Hall Tickets, Preparation of D Forms, Tabulation and Processing of Results, Display of results and marks on the University Website and Printing of Memorandum of Marks and all other certificates
- On-line updating of student and faculty information of those who are on rolls

Thrust on Research:

After the department was upgraded to CAS, thrust was provided to research. A record 32 plus one JRF for 2009-10 batch and 07 for 2010-11 has been enrolled in PhD program based on their performance in an eligibility test and interview.

In the last six years, six of our research scholars have been awarded the PhD degree:

1. R. Akhileshwari, supervisor Dr.K.Stevenson
2. Prabhanjan Kumar Yadav, supervisor Prof. P.L.Vishweswar Rao
3. T.Satish Kumar, supervisor Prof.P.L.Vishweshwar Rao
4. G. Krishna Rao, supervisor Prof.C.Padmaja Shaw
5. S.Ramu, supervisor Prof.Padmaja Shaw
6. P.Kenedy, supervisor Prof. P.L.Vishweshwar Rao

In the last three years, the Department handled the following research projects.

- I. Evaluation of government outreach programme—I & PR Department, GOAP.
- II. Helping teachers cope with technology, SSA, GOAP.

Teaching:

Major achievement during the last six years:

The BoS revised the syllabus and a new curriculum is in place with a major shift from a one-year BCJ/MCJ course to a two-year MCJ Program from academic year 2011-2012.

Choice Based Credit System (CBCS) was implemented in the University from academic year 2010. The Department as part of CBCS introduced two inter-disciplinary courses:

- Freelance Journalism
- Publishing

The inter-disciplinary courses are very popular at the University and a record 125 candidates opted for the course.

The syllabus has been revised every two-years and a new curriculum is in place. It was done with inputs from experts from the media industry on the Board of Studies, board of paper setters and examiners of the department. The department embarked on updating the syllabus of all courses for imparting skills in emerging areas. This is reflected in the recruitment of our students in large numbers in various media organizations.

Digital outreach:

The enabling of WI-FI atmosphere was possible in the Department due to the support of CAS under E-Lab. Today, the entire communication process is digitized. Routine student information is routed through emails/SMS. Update like examination dates/internal and semester exams/lectures are provided to students and faculty. Communication between the admin-staff-students has improved resulting in quicker spread of information to all.

Audio-visual interface in classrooms:

In the Department, the grant provided by UGC under CAS ensured that LED TV screens (four) are put up in each of the class room. The teacher now has the option to plug his pen drive and play video as an effective classroom teaching aid. All teachers are making power point lessons and are subsequently mailing for student use. The audio-visual interface has eased the complex theoretical understanding of students.

One LED TV screen is put up in the viewing room where TATA SKY connection provides access to the entire news and entertainment network in the country. News is played throughout the working hours in the viewing room.

The faculty is involved in consultancy and advisory role with government, NGOs and Corporate sector. Here is the list of institutions the faculty is associated with:

A new lab for news processing with 13 Apple Macintosh computers and 13 HP computers has been set up for hands on and online training. The Department subscribes to PTI online service to facilitate hands-on training of students in various skills like keyboard editing, using current software like “In-design” “Quark Express” for page makeup. 41. Was any need assessment exercise undertaken before the development of new programme(s)? If so, highlight the methodology.

The department has succeeded in assessing the need for English in the present market-driven economy and come to the forefront of disseminating the know-how acquired from SAP-DRS I.

During the five years of SAP DRS I (April 2009-March 2014) the department has progressively become a resource center for English studies and language teaching especially for all the universities in the Telangana region.

The needs of students were assessed through interaction; field trips by young faculty were undertaken to about 100 colleges affiliated to the university; a survey questionnaire was filled by about 50 students in each college which was later analyzed and data used for curricular and syllabus restructuring.

Needs analysis of teachers of General English at the UG level was also undertaken in order to bring in developmental modules into the syllabus.

The aim was to make the department a nodal centre for English studies in the region and this has been initiated. The strategy is by garnering the available expertise to meet the diverse needs of English which the changing scenario of global culture throws up from time to time.

Also new orientations and new approaches to literature for inculcating a literary sensibility in non-literature students has been earmarked as a huge area of potential expansion which the department will address.

4. Revenue generation
 - a) Foreign students; ELT, CELT; Royalty from books
5. International recognition for teachers. Many are on national and international boards and committees. Some have been invited to teach courses at universities abroad.

Weaknesses

1. Staff crunch
2. Need for new class rooms with modern infrastructure

Opportunities

With the coming into existence of Telangana, the dept has brought out UG texts books under CBCS using some part of Telangana culture as Reading passages in the texts in order to inculcate cultural content into the curriculum and also teach language through local literature.

With the introduction of CBCS at UG level and extending CBCS to affiliated PG colleges the department has got the opportunity to make the curriculum and syllabus more effective and need-based, including the recent trends in English language and literary studies.

In consonance with the regular PG programme, syllabus for CDE courses has also been revised. This gave the department the opportunity to prepare better and more relevant study materials for students doing their BA and MA through the Distance Mode.

Challenges

Since majority of students come from regional medium background, standards of English are likely to fall and this is a serious threat faced by the dept from the last decade or so. To counteract this, the dept has introduced innovative programmes such as PEER-TEACHING LEARNING in which the students of MA who are well-versed in English teach Oral and Written Communication to students of their own batch MA who are weak in English. 2 batches of the course have successfully been completed in 2016 and the feedback is so encouraging that we plan to expand and make it more effective.

52. Future plans of the department

- To bring out a Dept profile detailing as much of the 100 years history of the department as possible
- To initiate an annual Newsletter of the dept from January 2017.
- To prepare students to participate in national/international paper reading sessions/research publications from MA level itself.
- To start Certificate courses in English, soft skills and Personality Development
- To start coaching programme for preparing students for UGC NET/JRF
- To establish a world class computerized language lab for the benefit of students from regional medium
- To improve library facility with latest books and refereed research journals

Strengths:

1. Our reputation for innovative, student centered learning and our expertise in interdisciplinary methods of teaching and research
2. The practice of continuous assessment and our content and process core curriculum
3. Maintaining a learning environment that values the process of learning as much as the knowledge taught and creating and fostering an environment for work and learning in which one may achieve a level of comfort with one's individuality and culture, while accepting and respecting the individuality and cultures of others
4. Our small size sets us apart from many institutions of higher education and plays a major role in successful student engagement with students rating their interaction with our faculty among the highest levels with a personalized “one-on-one” experience.
5. Preparing students for the world beyond simply rote learning.

Weaknesses:

1. No critical mass of minority status students
2. Extremely lean operating budget which leaves little flexibility for anything creative
3. No classrooms for innovative pedagogy, not enough faculty offices
4. Lack of visible identity for the Department due to very bad public relations management, absence of communication and marketing strategies
5. Insufficient, practically no IT- support, the increased use of technology in teaching and learning Foreign Languages at other institutions with areas of expansion in intake services and applications has placed a severe strain on the staff

Challenges:

1. Imitation by other colleges of our distinctive features and programs dilutes our uniqueness and competitive advantage
2. Loss of full time faculty, and no new recruitment
3. Overcoming fear of risk-taking and innovation
4. Strengthen student retention by providing curriculum and learning experiences that enhance opportunities for relevant careers, further education, and lifelong learning
5. Strengthen student retention by providing resources and services that foster academic success, support diverse needs, and enhance opportunities for growth.

Opportunities:

1. Expanded international studies and global issues curriculum, experience, and programs
2. The growing service and information technology- based economy will create new jobs for which we can prepare students or retrain those who have lost jobs in the declining sectors
3. The expected redistribution of the population within our catchment area over the next 10 years, opportunities exist within the new environment for us by staying attuned
4. Adapting the curriculum and delivery methods to include more off-campus opportunities, being creative in course scheduling, online courses, and providing additional support for satellite spaces are a few of the ways we can meet the needs of our diverse and ever changing student body
5. Technology can also be used to enhance our relationship with constituents, ranging from prospects, community partners, internship sites, students, and alumni

50. Briefly highlight the contributions of the department in generating new knowledge, basic or applied:

The Department is running several streams of commerce courses at both undergraduate and post graduate levels catering to about 1,40,000 undergraduate students and to about 1,500 post graduate students. The Department has been in the forefront in responding to the industry needs by swiftly devising new courses or revising the syllabi of existing courses so as to make students industry-ready.

The Department achieved excellent placements for M.Com students through its own placement cell. The Department is quick in responding positively to the industry requests for MOUs and has to its credit three MOUs with Tally, GENPACT and ICICI Bank.

The Department well recognized the need for Computer education and introduced a decade back itself, computer subjects at both under graduate and post graduate levels of Commerce courses. It has the credit of offering a perfect blend of Information Technology with Commerce core subjects in such an inseparable fashion that use of computers by faculty and students is made indispensable while learning commerce subjects. Further, the Department introduced computer and commerce lab as a part of the curriculum and assessment to expose the commerce students to the practical knowledge and environment. The Department is always in the fore front in leading other Institutions in the State in designing the common-core syllabus at under-graduate level and showing a new direction to educational institutions from time to time. The premier and unique master programmes like, M.Com (Finance), M.Com (Marketing), M.Com (Accounting), M.Com (Taxation), M.Com (Information Systems) and PG Diploma in Taxation, are designed to suit the needs of the corporate world and various programmes like, Spoken English to help the students with regional medium in improving their communication skills, personality development programmes, seminars etc are being conducted to enhance their employment opportunities in various sectors.

The Department provides the academic leadership in organizing training programmes for the trainers i.e. the Commerce teachers of about 300 colleges under the control of Osmania University, by regularly conducting the training programmes in the new subjects and in new teaching techniques, through its own Training Wing. Exposing students to the knowledge and experience of distinguished personalities from Chartered Accountancy firms, Institutes of Cost & Management Accountants, Company Secretaries, Software Industries, Police Department, Civil Services, Banks, Insurance companies etc. is a regular feature in their course curriculum.

Provision of Internet facilities through WiFi round the clock, use of Audio-visual aids in the class rooms, conduct of Group discussions, Case studies, Role-plays, Mock-interviews etc., Interaction of Student counselors with students for frequent sharing of views and problems and guiding them throughout their course period are some of the student development activities of the Department.

Project Report preparation by studying a researchable topic in a firm or taking up a burning issue related to Finance / Marketing / Accounting / Human Resource Management and analyzing it by survey method, by using appropriate statistical tools, whereby offering useful suggestions to the industry world, is a challenging task carried out with success by the senior students, which is applauded by the Industry experts who evaluate them. This exercise is at times providing corporates with an opportunity to spot the merit and absorb them in their own firms.

The Department of Commerce does not create students in its own image, but develops students who can create their own image. One of the living examples is Dr. Y. Venugopal

Reddy who took his Doctorate degree from Commerce Department and rose to the highest position as Governor of RBI, India.

The Department is rich by its robust faculty, some of whom are Best Teacher Awardees by the A.P. State Government and other reputed national and international reputed societies. Many of the faculty are Presidents, Executive Vice-Presidents, and Executive Council Members in the national bodies like All India Accounting Association, Indian Institute of Public Administration, All India Commerce Association etc. serving and spreading, nationally and internationally, the cause of Commerce education. The Department is proud of its faculty who visited foreign countries to present research papers and to chair technical sessions in the International Seminars and to take up teaching and research assignments on academic exchange programmes and who published several research papers in the International journals and who are on the Editorial board of international journals and Board of Studies of prestigious Institutes.

The department also runs an internationally reputed Quarterly Journal “OU Journal of International Business Studies”.

- A special appreciation was given by the NBA expert team (Scored 793/1000).
- The faculty members of the department are active and acknowledged contributors to the UPE status of the Osmania University.
- The department has applied 2 patents (1-MVR & 1-Tharuna Sri)
- Well established alumni across the globe

50. Briefly highlight the contributions of the department in generating new knowledge, basic or applied.

The faculty of the department is actively involving in research activities in collaboration with various organizations such as EMRI, NIMS and NERTU. The department along with the various other departments of Osmania University is part of UPE project. The Department has close clinical interactions with many local hospitals. This led to the development of a number of medical instruments of immediate use to doctors. For instance, the departmental staff has successfully modified electro medical equipment such as bedside monitors, blood-gas analyzers and auto analyzers of corporate hospitals. The staff has designed and developed computer-assisted prescription system (CAPS) that caters to the needs of doctors at primary health centers and district hospitals, helping them in the diagnosis and treatment of about 100 common diseases that afflict the national populace. The staff has also successfully developed import-substitute instruments such as peripheral nerve stimulators, apnea monitors, bone growth stimulators and dry steam sterilizers. The Department operates an electro-oculographic laboratory at the Nizams institute of medical sciences, as well as a biomedical instrumentation centre for serving complex medical equipment. The Department has designed and developed a microcontroller based saccadic stimulator for the department of clinical therapeutics and pharmacology, Nizams Institute of Medical Sciences (NIMS), Hyderabad. Vacuums/Pressure monitoring systems were also developed for Department of plastic surgery Nizams Institute of Medical Sciences (NIMS), Hyderabad. Department has identified several thrust areas such as Biomedical signal & image processing, Nano technology, and Medical Instrumentation towards research, based on the need of medical fraternity keeping in view of affordable health care delivery in an effective and efficient manner. The faculty members of the department are working in the following areas of Research.

1. GPS-GPRS based emergency patient transportation system and evaluation of physiological parameters
2. Deep Brain Stimulation as a therapy of Parkinson's disease
3. EOG signal analysis for the Diagnosis of various ocular disorders

4. Analysis of Sleep EEG for the diagnosis of neurological disorders
5. FDTD analysis of Medical Images
6. Hyperthermia application of Nano materials for the cancer therapy.
7. ECG analysis by using wavelets transforms
8. Independent Component analysis of Physiological signals
9. Syncope detection technique in emergency
10. Non invasive beat to beat BP monitoring system by using PWTT

The research contribution made by the faculty has been commendable in terms of the publications and patents applied.

51. Detail any five Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Challenges (SWOC) of the department.

STRENGTHS:

1. Being a young and growing field, Biomedical Engineering provides greater scope for exploring newer aspects in the teaching programmes of the department as well as identifying fertile areas for taking up research activities. It is an obvious advantage for students.
2. The BME department possesses the unique advantage of having close contact and fruitful liaison with the medical colleges on one hand and enterprising researchers in the discipline such as neurophysiology and pharmacology on the other side. This is evidenced by the varied nature of the publications generated.
3. The availability of staff with diverse backgrounds especially experience in industry and teaching is a positive factor. Even with the existing constraints currently being experienced, the BME department faculty could make some useful contributions as indicated below.
 - a. Design and implementation of the campus-wide network in the college with all CISCO switches and fiber optic backbone.
 - b. Design and implementation of the campus-wide network in the university with EXTREME switches and fiber optic backbone.
 - c. Neurophysiology laboratory at Nizams Institute of Medical Sciences (NIMS).
 - d. Development of saccadic stimulator for the clinical pharmacology department of NIMS.
4. Availability of expertise pertaining to signal processing embedded systems and medical instrumentation.
5. BME department has alongside been striving to enlarge the scope for providing basic facilities and amenities keeping the student needs in view. The following one mentioned in this direction.
 - a. Establishing English laboratory for the first time.
 - b. Establishing internet laboratory in the college.
 - c. Establishment computer center in the college.

6. Local existence of large teaching hospitals and availability of several related equipment in facilitating the state of art training of students of the BME department.

WEAKNESSES:

1. The primary weakness of the department is paucity of qualified faculty on permanent basis. This has been a major handicap in training the students on an assured basis.
2. Lack of expertise in emerging areas such as nanotechnology is another shortcoming that has to be overcome.
3. Shortage of staff impacts on the department's ability to utilize opportunities for enhancing the faculty expertise in coveted and novel fields.
4. The above mentioned hurdle also limits the staff of the department to undertake QIP programmes on long term basis.

OPPORTUNITIES:

1. There is good scope for medical professionals to draw upon the department to identify the areas where need based product improvements can be undertaken in consultation with medical professionals and industry.
2. Establishment of testing facilities or proof of performance certificates for some innovations.
3. Medical institutions and the department can work in tandem to undertake need-based research.
4. The department can extend the services of staff in maintenance of medical equipment in hospitals.

CHALLENGES:

1. While biomedical science is registering significant advances, the related biomedical industry in the country is yet to gain momentum and the much desired institute-industry collaboration is yet to take place. Initiatives from both sides are needed.
2. In view of tough competition among the different engineering disciplines and the tendencies for opting to 'traditional' branches, measures of awareness enhancement are called for.
3. Job opportunities in the core area are yet to touch optimal level and this is likely to improve with growth of the biomedical industry.

52. Future plans of the department.

Department has identified several thrust areas such as Biomedical signal & image processing, Nano technology, and Medical Instrumentation towards research, based on the need of medical fraternity keeping in view of affordable health care delivery in an effective and efficient manner.

The following is the questionnaire for a practical subject:

Questionnaire for Practical subject:

- 1) Rate the course in general
- 2) Rate the Instructors in the lab
- 3) Did the instructor help you to understand the experiment?
- 4) Have the experiments designed, helped you in understanding the theoretical concepts
- 5) Has the course helped you in gaining confidence in doing practical work?

The feedback is computerized and once the feedback is taken, the average ratings in respect of each of the questions in the questionnaire are computed and passed on to the concerned teacher. The feedback mechanism helps the teacher in assessing himself and taking corrective measures to improve the performance. In case of poor performance, the HOD may suitably advise the teacher to take corrective measures.

Training Need Analysis (TNA):

In addition, the feedback also serves the purpose of identifying training needs. The inputs from feedback are useful in identifying weak areas and accordingly, TNA is carried out. The teachers are advised to undergo training to enrich their knowledge. In addition, whenever new subjects are introduced, the teachers concerned are advised to undergo Faculty Development Programme (FDP) before handling the subjects with adequate financial support.

In-house training programme:

In addition, many in-house training programmes are conducted in the thrust areas, so that the teachers are abreast of advances in the computer science and engineering. The department also conducts Faculty Development Programme (FDP)s for the benefit of faculty members of both the department and other colleges.

Design based experiments in the laboratory:

Design skills are imparted to students through (i) study of concrete examples as case studies, (ii) laboratory assignments to develop real world applications, (iii) engage students in designing systems with off the shelf hardware / software components, (iv) summer internship, and (v) Project work.

51. Detail any five Strengths, Weakness, Opportunities and Challenges (SWOC) of the department.

Report of SWOC Analysis

The Process:

The SWOC analysis is carried out in two levels i.e. at the Department level and Institutional level. Each Department has conducted SWOC analysis by inviting all the stakeholders including present students, alumni, industry and staff. Strengths and Weakness are discussed in detail with a focus on the respective Department domains and identified the same. Further, Opportunities and Threats are also discussed at Department level and reports are prepared.

At the Institution level, the SWOT analysis is conducted by inviting industry experts, alumni, staff and students. Industry was represented by TCS, Infosys, Wipro, Capital IQ, Deloitte, DRDO. A total of 103 stakeholders have participated in the analysis which includes 08 representatives from industry, 50 students, 30 faculty members, and 15 alumni members. Parent's feedback is separately taken during the parent-teacher meeting.

Principal briefly explained about SWOC and its importance and then gave a presentation about the institution highlighting its Strengths and Weaknesses. CPTIP generated revenue of 25 lakh from its inception, it undertakes consultancy works of industries like DRDO, DMRL, ECIL, Mahindra Satyam, Transcend India, Bio Genex, CARE, sensacore medical instrumentation and Digital dynamics. In recent times, it is found that the Hospitals are utilizing the needs of center more as time taken to produce the component is minimal.

- National recognition

1. Center for Energy Technology(CET):

Center for Energy Technology was established in Nov-1997 with the objective of promoting New and Renewable sources of Energy, growing concern on the depletion of fossil fuel reserves and detrimental effects of conventional energy sources on environment makes it imperative to, maximize the use of renewable energy sources which are economically viable and environmentally friendly. The center aims at development and popularization of these technologies.

2. Center for Prototyping and Testing of Industrial Products (CPTIP)

CPTIP generated revenue of 30 lakhs in a period of five years from its inception, it undertakes consultancy works of industries like DRDO, DMRL, ECIL, Mahindra Satyam, Transcend India, Bio Genex, CARE, Sensacore medical instrumentation and Digital dynamics. In recent times it is found that the Hospitals are utilizing the needs of center more as time taken to produce the component is minimal. Apart from consultation work it is also extensively used for M.E and B.E. dissertation works.

21. Special research laboratories sponsored by / created by industry or corporate bodies.

The college has created a technological hub called Technological development center with the help of software companies. In this hub it has created two separate facilities for training, consultancy for solid modeling and analysis called as CAD center with softwares like hypermesh, solidworks and a center for training students, faculty and employees of govt and private firms and for providing consultancy in the field of computational fluid dynamics called CFD center. Each center is furnished with 60 desktop systems, LCDs.

MOU's with DAIKIN company to set up its training and servicing unit in the campus in TDC building and provide training facilities to the faculty and the students and undertake B.E., M.E. projects apart from training of engineering faculty from various colleges of the city in the area of HVAC.

Challenges

- (i) To attract interested and motivated students to Astronomy.
- (ii) Find sources and funds to upgrade the facilities at the JRO.
- (iii) Increase the scientific staff so that the research output could increase.

52. Future plans of the department.

The department has played a crucial role in the past in shaping the progress in Astronomy. It has contributed majorly in the studies of binary stars, variable stars and galaxy dynamics. The future plans of the department are to carry on its legacy and propagate the knowledge of Astronomy from school level to higher research level. It is desired to widen the thrust areas to X-ray Astronomy, Black hole physics and Celestial Mechanics & its applications to space research.

The department is in the process of signing exchange and collaborative programs with leading institutes at national and inter-national level.

Teaching:

The Postgraduate program of M.Sc. Botany is offered by the Department of Botany in the Semester system. Three specializations viz. Applied Physiology and Plant Molecular Biology; Applied Mycology and Plant Pathology; Biodiversity of Medicinal Plants are offered in the third and fourth semesters.

The students submit assignments and present seminars on selected topics apart from their regular classes with theory and practical examinations. The students also have project work assigned to them which they complete in the fourth semester. The students also have to attend the classes and write the examination for a choice-based paper that is offered by the Department. The Department of Botany offers the Choice-based paper on Biofertilizers. We plan to offer new courses like Plant Biotechnology, Genetic engineering, Microbiology, Bioinformatics, Environmental Biotechnology etc.

All the above are new innovations, such as Assignments, seminars, projects and Choice-based papers were introduced in the last three years and have become successful. We plan to offer new courses like Plant Biotechnology, Genetic engineering, Microbiology, Bioinformatics, Environmental Biotechnology etc.

By assessing the demands of the Biotech industry, the Department has plans to start another specialization “Molecular Biology and Plant Biotechnology” at the M.Sc. core level in order to prepare the students in tune to the industry demand.

Further, the Department has plans to start short certificate courses for the PG students in the practical areas of Plant Biotechnology, Genetic engineering, Microbiology, Bioinformatics, Environmental Biotechnology, Medicinal Botany etc. to help them develop specialized skills to find employment in Biotech industries.

Research:

The Department has been carrying out research in almost all frontier areas of Biotechnology, Molecular biology, Plant Physiology, Environmental biology and Mycology as evidenced by the numerous research projects that are ongoing and those that have been completed and the publications in prestigious High impact Factor Journals. All the above achievements have been possible due to the funding received from DST (FIST) and UGC in the past decade.

The funding from various agencies will strengthen the Department in terms of equipment and resources to continue our research. Since the Department has good expertise latest biological and instrumentation techniques, the funding would help in dissemination of knowledge.

RESEARCH ACTIVITIES OF DIFFERENT SPECIALIZATIONS:

MOLECULAR GENETICS & BIOTECHNOLOGY:

1. During the period 2011-2012, the research team in the lab have completed several research projects funded by UGC and DST and on Jatropha, Jojoba, Salacia reticulata, and several other economically important plants including medicinal plants and have completed the work on in vitro culture, physico-chemical characterization using HPLC, GC etc, molecular characterization based on RAPD and AFLP, Bioinformatics based problems besides aspects of Bioremediation of PAHs from industrial sites using bacteria.
2. Several prestigious papers in recombinant DNA technology and Genetic Engineering have been published in Top-Notch International Journals like Bioresource Technology, Applied Energy, Biomass and Bioenergy, Plant Cell Reports, In Vitro Cellular & Devp. Several research papers have been published in top-notch international Journals.

4. Research in this laboratory in the past decade has been mainly concentrated on the use of transgenic technology using molecular methods and tissue culture to obtain disease resistance in crop plants. Apart from the major work on an AP – Netherlands funded Biotechnology research project on pigeonpea, considerable transgenic research has been carried out in sorghum, green gram and chickpea. The production of fungal disease resistant transgenic pigeonpea by incorporation of the rice chitinase gene is the first and only achievement in the world so far. The other ongoing major research work in this laboratory has been devoted to standardization of tissue culture and micropropagation of economically important plants, especially the Biodiesel plant Jatropha sps and Jojoba.
5. The laboratory has been equipped with the most modern equipment, which is aiding Molecular research work comprising the Polymerase Chain Reaction, Southern blotting, western blotting etc..

APPLIED MYCOLOGY & MOLECULAR PLANT PATHOLOGY:

1. The faculty has been carrying out research both in basic and applied aspects in this specialization. Several research projects have been funded by various funding agencies viz., UGC, CSIR, DBT, MoEn & F, DST etc.
2. Members of this section got their Post-Doctoral research training in reputed labs of UK, USA, Germany, Canada, Japan, Czechoslovakia etc. Several workshops and Symposia at National level and one International Conference were conducted.
3. The teaching faculty of this division is involved in writing monographs in Soil Fungi, Rust Fungi and Powdery Mildews of Andhra Pradesh. Extensive studies are being carried out in the control of foliar pathogens and root borne pathogens using native antagonistic micro-organisms and plant extracts.
4. The work on Biodiversity of Leguminaceous Rust Fungi of India is in progress. Mycofloristic studies on Rust Fungi, Powdery Mildews, Cercosporae and Hyphomycetes is well in progress. These studies have resulted in the erection of Manoharachariella as the new genus and more than 10 new species.
5. In addition molecular characterization of local isolates of Trichoderma viride is in progress. Studies on Biodiversity and taxonomy of fungi revealed 18 new genera and 60 new species and 300 additions to the fungi of India. It is interesting to report that one new genus and two new taxa have been identified. UGC has sanctioned a major research project on “Biodiversity and Systematic of Leguminaceous Rust Fungi of India. UGC has sanctioned SAP – III with Mycology and Plant Pathology and Biodiversity of higher plants and microbes as major thrust area and Systems Biology as the other thrust area.
6. During this period several research papers were published in National & International journals.

Conducted outstanding research in the field of Biodiversity, Taxonomy, Conservation and Biotechnology of Fungi, Medicinal Plants, Molecular Biology, Plant protection - utilized for the rural development.

PLANT PHYSIOLOGY

The Plant Physiology Division is carrying out research in frontier areas of Physiology and Biochemistry. During this period several research papers were published in reputed National and International journals.

1. The main focus of the work is on brassinosteroids, stress physiology and studies involving impart medicinal and aromatic plants.
2. The application of brassinosteroids improved the performance of rose scented geranium. Brassinosteroids enhanced the herbage yield as well as geraniol content in rose scented geranium. The growth enhancement was associated with elevated roots of photosynthesis and other metabolic process which have significant bearing on growth.
3. Foliar treatment of brassinosteroids to coleus plants caused substantial growth promotion. The enhanced growth was further translated into higher economic yield as reflected in increase in the yield of tuberous roots. It was also found that brassinosteroid application, showed positive impact on forskolin content of the roots.
4. Brassinosteroids were found to alleviate the stress caused by lead, cadmium and zinc in radish, the model plant for heavy metal stress studies. The amelioration of metal toxicity as conferred by brassinosteroids was found associated with increased activity of free oxy radical scavenging enzymes, reduced membrane peroxidation and accumulation of free proline and other osmoprotectants. A deep probe into heavy metal stress alleviation revealed that brassinosteroids influence the glutathione-ascorbate cycle there by combating the damaging impact of stress. Further, brassinosteroids reduced the protein oxidation and helped in sustained growth in heavy metal challenged habitats.
5. The work on impact of brassinosteroids on the growth of Cajanus plants under toxic levels of aluminium is giving promising results. Brassinosteroids reduced the inhibitory effect of aluminium on root growth there by improved the overall growth of the plants under toxic concentrations of aluminium. Studies concerning the physiological basis of aluminium tolerance as impacted by brassinosteroids are underway.
6. The studies on the influence of brassinosteroids on the performance of aswagandha, an important medicinal plant are just initiated and progressing well. The main emphasis of these studies is to improve the performance of aswagandha under dry land cultivation by exogenously applying brassinosteroids.
7. As part of the AP-Netherlands funded project on medicinal plants research, In Vitro production of secondary metabolites of medicinal value is being carried out. Vasicine, an important alkaloid has been isolated from the callus of Adhatoda zeylanica. Vasicine content has been increased by changing the concentration of micronutrients and elicitors. Aloin and Barbaloin, important

Anthrone glycosides have been isolated from certain ecotypes of Aloe barbadensis.

8. In collaboration with NGO's, attempts are made to popularize commercial cultivation of medicinal plants in villages of Nalgonda & Mahaboobnagar Districts of A.P.
9. Studies on alleviation of fluoride toxicity on plant growth by nutrient amendments were studied. Influence of fluoride toxicity on growth of medicinal plants with particular references to the production of phytochemicals with medicinal properties were undertaken.

TAXONOMY, ANATOMY, EMBRYOLOGY & MEDICINAL PLANTS:

During this period several research papers were published in reputed Scientific Journals.

1. Floristics, chemotaxonomy and pharmacognostic studies of Apocyanaceae, Asclepidaceae and Moraceae.
2. Floristic studies of East Godavari Dist. are made with the help of remote sensing.
3. Studies on epidermology of Asteraceae, Malvaceae and Portulacaceae.
4. Allelopathic studies employing certain weeds.
5. Study of secondary metabolites with medicinal properties.
6. The renovation of the Herbarium room has improved the herbarium in several aspects. It is now a repository of good collection and will prove to be of great help to the students and the Faculty.

ALGOLOGY, HYDROBIOLOGY & ECOLOGY

Biomonitoring of the twin cities lakes i.e., Himayathsagar and Mir-alam Tank.

1. Assisted in the identification of algal flora to NGO's on the Cyberabad lakes.
2. Eutrophication studies on some lakes of R.R. District.
3. Enumeration of the algal flora of different environs and their systematic positions.

51. Detail any five Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Challenges (SWOC) of the department.

Strengths

- Highly qualified and experienced Faculty. Faculty are nationally and internationally recognized as indicated by their publications, citation indices and H-indices.
- Highly sophisticated scientific equipment.
- Good audio visually equipped classrooms and labs.
- Good library facility.
- Motivated students and research scholars.

Weaknesses

- The Department needs more funds to carry out research in highly specialized areas like molecular biology.
- The Department needs more facilities like uninterrupted power supply and good Conference venue-facility and Committee room for discussions etc.
- The staff recruitment is not taking place and several facilities of the Department like the Herbarium, Glasshouses and Library are not staffed with candidates trained for the jobs which has led to a neglect of these facilities which were once highly acclaimed and recognized the world over. Therefore, to meet the challenges of the future research, technical staff recruitment is a very urgent necessity.

- There are very sophisticated research equipment in the Department but there is no provision for maintenance in any of the grants received. This has led to accumulation of Non-working equipment in the Department which are of no use and which also occupy precious space. Hence good equipment maintenance grants are needed urgently.

If the above weaknesses are overcome, the Department will meet the future challenges and take up new opportunities.

Opportunity

- More funding is needed. Maintenance of Equipment is needed to carry out intensive research. Therefore, we need a maintenance grant.

Challenges

- To carry out world class research for the benefit of mankind, publish in peer reviewed, high impact factor journals and to apply for patents.

51. Detail any five Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Challenges (SWOC) of the dept

Strengths:

Academic curricular Strength:

- Faculty with rich experience and exposure to International Science. Several of the Faculty are Post Doctoral experience in Countries like Germany, USA, UK, Taiwan, Japan etc. Their experience has contributed to updating the syllabii in content and quality as well as research publications in International Journals, to design new laboratory experiments and include in the curriculum, conduct workshops, seminars and thereby generate human resources in teaching and research (Annexures I and II; List of Publications and conference presentations)
- Proximity to national R&D Organizations that helped in collaborations and dissemination of Information.
- Demand for international students rises every year which helps the exchange programs with foreign academic Institutions from Iraq, Egypt and other Asian and African countries.

Opportunities:

- Osmania University has the presence of huge international student community in which Chemistry Department takes a huge share both at PG and Ph.D. Program levels. This gives awareness to the students and faculty alike, about the science at International Level.

- Proximity of Osmania University to various pharma and chemical industries by virtue of its geographical location, gives a mutual advantage to the Industry and the outgoing graduates alike. On Campus interviews conducted through the placement cell and Industry directly helped many an alumnus of the Department being induced into the Industry and Academic Institutions.

Challenges:

- Most of the students are from rural, vernacular language background, who need additional training in English Language, Communication skills to enable them to compete in the current, Industrial global job market scenario.
- Lack of Faculty appointments on the superannuation with sufficient number of new recruits which results in a gap between the experienced and inexperienced new recruits.

Weakness:

- Uncertain number of Bandhs, which sometimes affects implementation of academic schedules.
- Absenteeism by steadily increasing number of Students who join the courses with other interests than pursue the academics.

52. Future plans of the department. Finishing schools, certificate program increased levels of collaboration with R& D Labs etc. Memorandum of Understanding with foreign universities with interdisciplinary curricular innovative curricula.

The future plans of the Department are on two fronts.

1. It is proposed to Improve Infra structure of Teaching labs and Research labs by seeking funds from national funding bodies like UGC, DST and others
By renovating existing facilities and b) by expanding and adding new built up area to enhance academic and research activities.
2. It is proposed to develop new curricula at various levels to suit the needs of the stake holders, the future student community.
 - a) Start certificate courses in areas where specialized skills are expected in the Chemical and Pharma Industry
 - b) In view of the reported peaking of the Indian youth entering the job market in the age group of 18 – 25 years, in the years 2018-20, it is proposed to design new syllabii, start new Masters programs with MOUs and collaborations with overseas educational institutions, having expertise in any state of the art techniques that may be of future use to develop human resources in the said areas.

Strengths:

- a) The Centre of Exploration Geophysics has well-equipped Geophysical equipment and labs.
- b) Participated in COSIP/ COSIST, DSA(SAP)-II.UGC Program Organized student seminars, group discussion, Industrial field trips, Geological and Geophysical field work.
- c) High Quality Courses - students doing our courses are well prepared for several national examinations and entrances eg. CSIR-UGC examination, GATE, entrance tests for Ph.D.
- d) Good computer facilities. Almost one computer for every two students and all new faculty immediately get a computer on joining.
- e) A good placement record. Students are generally valued highly in the job market considering the shortage of geophysicist.

Weaknesses:

- a. There is a lack of diversity of disciplines in the research interest of the faculty.
- b. Many vacancies amongst sanctioned faculty positions.

Opportunities:

The Department has gained a name for itself on the national and international arenas, and our students are well employed and many occupy very high positions in different organizations.

Challenges

1. Generating research entrepreneurs of the future.
2. Creating stress less and peaceful atmosphere for teaching and research.
3. Increase the diversity of the students admitted in our programs; Attracting top grade students for our PhDprograms.

52. Future plans of the department.

Thrust area - Crustal Evolution, Resource potential and Management in part s of North-Eastern Dharwarcraton, the following objectives are planned. Gravity, Magnetic & EM methods will be planned for Crustal studies in selected areas. We would like to grow continuously in faculty strength and give our best in research and education. Nanoscience course is introduced.

Some of the important contributions of the Department in the teaching and research front:

- i) Developed Magneto electric composite system for magneto electric transducers.
- ii) The experimental facility for dynamic pyro electric studies has been set up. This is helping in characterizing infrared pyro detectors.
- iii) A wide variety of ferrites are synthesized and studied. Number of Ferrites are developed for microwave nonreciprocal devices, and multilayer chip inductors.
- iv) Nanocrystalline magnetic materials are synthesized and characterized for high frequency applications.
- v) The measurement of elastic behaviour of ferrites and GMR materials over a wide temperature range. Theoretical models are developed for domain wall dynamics in ferrites.
- vi) A unique single channel acoustic emission system has been designed indigenously. The acoustic emission is used to study insight, the poling fatigue and phase transfer methods in piezo electric ceramics. The technique is useful for quality checking of piezo electric systems.
- vii) Magneto resistance materials are developed using Lanthanum – Calcium manganates.
- viii) The solid state batteries were fabricated and various cell parameters were evaluated.
- ix) Few rare earths doped phosphors and CRT phosphors have been synthesized and studied.

- x) Tellurium and bismuth based glasses are prepared and characterized. These materials are good for application to photoconductors.
- xi) Application of computational methods like Monte carlo method to statistical physics for systems under sever confinement are being studied.
- xii) The work on fuel cells and their characterization is being carried out.
- xiii) Base line data on the indoor environmental radiation levels has been prepared in he proposed uranium mining areas in Nalgonda district, A.P, in collaboration with EAD, BARC, Bombay.

The Wildlife Biology and Taxonomy Lab of the Department under the guidance of Dr. C. Srinivasulu has created the first ever comprehensive database of biological diversity of Andhra Pradesh including details of nearly 10,000 taxa ranging from fungi to mammals. The database was instrumental in production of a book titled ‘Biodiversity of Andhra Pradesh – A profile’ detailing the salient features of the database. This book was released during the United Nation-Convention on Biological Diversity’s Conference of Parties 11 held at Hyderabad between 1st and 19th October 2012.

The same team was also instrumental in contributing to the first ever Greater Hyderabad City Biodiversity Index for 2012 (first of its kind in India, and 7th city in the world to do so!) in collaboration with stakeholders from NRSA, Govt of India and Greater Hyderabad Municipal Corporation, Hyderabad. The City Biodiversity Index and the book titled ‘Glimpses of Biodiversity of Greater Hyderabad’ were also released during the United Nation-Convention on Biological Diversity’s Conference of Parties 11 held at Hyderabad between 1st and 19th October 2012.

51. Detail any five Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Challenges (SWOC) of the department.

Strength of the Department:

- Diverse expertise of the faculty and a high level of academic excellence and commitment to teaching
- Well-equipped laboratories for M.Sc. students & research
- Natural history museum with diverse collection and insect consortium
- Individual and departmental research projects
- Modern animal house facility

Weakness of the Department:

- Medium of instruction – Majority of students joining the post graduation course, being first generation learners coming from village backgrounds having pursued their earlier education in Telugu medium, find it difficult to comprehend and understand lessons given in English.
- Faculty recharge - the faculty composition is skewed towards Professor who will retire by 2017, faculty induction is far in between.

- c. Mentorship programme - Faculty mentorship programme is not being taken seriously by the students.
- d. Most time is being expended on classroom teaching thus deterring activities that could enhance student learning and faculty development including student research activities, pursuit of extramural research grant, instructional development, etc.
- e. Insufficient resources and inadequate departmental grant from the University to enhance regular teaching and research facilities.

Opportunities of the Department:

- a. Diversity of faculty expertise and quality is an asset, and scope of within the department and interdisciplinary collaborations can provide better opportunities.
- b. Scope for better curricular development to create opportunities for interaction between faculty of other departments with students of zoology and faculty of zoology with students of other departments.
- c. Large teaching classrooms (2 nos) can be utilized for large-format short-duration courses that can be accommodated during the vacations or evenings.
- d. Modernization and establishment of the state-recognized repository of zoological collection and environmental education center at the Natural History Museum.
- e. Under-utilized scope for acquiring extra-mural research grant through Sir Ronald Ross Institute of Parasitology existing at present that could be changed by proactive interdisciplinary grant pursuance.

Challenges of the Department:

- a. Lack of commitment from the students to pursue the course seriously. The course has lost sheen and charm due to burgeoning applied courses, and majority of the takers of the course join the course for settling in jobs that does not require post graduation degree. Lack of commitment by the takers of the course remains one of the biggest challenges the department is facing as with the passage of time this seems to be worsening.
- b. Societal pressures and attitude towards the classical and applied subjects remains a greater challenge. There is a palpable resistance in accepting the fact that classical courses are far better in the long run.
- c. Student and community demographics are a challenge as most takers of the course do not opt for pursuing research as a career.
- d. Pedagogical innovations are not being actively considered due to which students are not getting enough stimulus to pursue further studies and career in the field thus leading to poor retention of human resources in zoology.
- e. Understanding the community needs and student demand, course remodeling needs to be taken up through strategic planning effort to train students in a manner that they would be able to take up and pass the UGC-CSIR NET and GATE examinations to receive funding grants for pursuing doctoral research, and/or prepare themselves for competitive examinations, both at the national and state level, to provide them better career opportunities.

52. Future plans of the department

Strengthening adequate number of young and motivated faculty to compensate teaching workload is a primary future plan of the department.

The Department also plans to upgrade the Natural History Museum by installing air conditioners and audio-visual interface and upgrade the information and communication technology enabled facilities in the teaching classrooms and practical labs.
